

I like k-love because it gives me and my family something positive to listen to. I have two small children ages 5 and 7 and they love listening to k-love. It gives the community a chance to listen to something other than music about drugs, sex, and violence. The children need the opportunity to listen to positive music that speaks of good morals and values. If k-love is removed from our community it would only cause those that listen to it to have to listen to something that might not speak of good morals and values. Our children in this day need more morals and values spoke and taught to them. If we have better teachings of them it would help stop drugs, unmarried sex, and violence in our country. I drive a school bus and some of the things I hear these children talk and singing about is devastating to hear coming from elementary children. This country needs more positive influences given to them and less encouragement about sex, drugs, and violence. They are our future and what will become of our country and if we do not do what we can to help them grow into mature moral adults then what will become of this great nation?
